THE WURLD OF BUSINESS

STOCKS AND BONDS.

New York, Nov. 9.—Stocks opened depressed on further liquidations. The early decline in prices was equal to Maik, Lake Shore and Louisville and Nashville being particularly weak. Later an improvement of Maik followed. In this rise Sugar, Tennezsec Coal and Iron, the Grangers, Northern Pacific preferred and Reading were all prominent. Near the close the rising tendency was checked by reports that arrangements had been made to ship $1,000,000 gold by Wednesday's steamers. On this report prices yielded Maik per cent. St. Paul, Western Union and Tennessee Coal, however, gained Maik on the casy. Total sales wer 122,000 shares.

The range of today's prices for the ac-tive stocks of the New York stock mar-ket are given below. The quotations are furnished The Tribune by C. du E. Din-mick, manager for William Line, Allen & Co., stock brokers, 412 Spruce street. Scranton.

OLD ISSUES IN NEW FORM.

low the Action of the Individual Operators in Appealing for Proxies Is Vienes in the Cities-Both Sides of the Case.

in the Cities—Both Sides of the Case.

Concerning the recently issued appeal of the Individual Anthracite Coal Operators' association to holders of stock in coal carrying roads for previous, with a view to securing a fair representation of the anchaette trade upon the boards of directors of these trade, the Philladelphia Bulletin cayst. The appeal is a temperately worked document. "Dursing the year 1894," It declares, "I net cent, of the total tempage was mined by the Anthracite Coal Oberators' association, comprising nearly all the corporations, firms and individuals mining anthracte ceal cutsing of the railroad companies above named." This "provortion," It is added, is "massi larger than that of any elicer bluste interest. "Arest of the companies under tentralist microst and providing for a division of the railroad of the surrements makes the interest. This surrements makes the interest of the members of one association and of the steekheiders in the greater companies practically identical, when the individual operator loss, the mining by the railroads from their own lands must be equally upprofitable.

"As all are aware, the last year has be equally unprofitable.

"As all are aware, the last year has been a most disastrous one to the trade. Many millions of tons that can never be replaced have been worse than thrown away, because actually sold at much away, because actually sold at much less than cost. Insolvency has nearly or quite overtaken some of the above companies, and those that have continued dividend payments have made up the deficits from their assets. That this waste has been unnecessary, every mining operator knows. Their lands are being rapidly exhausted, and cannot be replaced at any price."

Another "Simmp" Feared. Another "Slump" Feared.

"Just now natural conditions are creating a sharp demand for coal, and counteracting corporate folly; but we find that some of the companies to whom we deliver our produce have made so many sales for future delivery at the previous low prices that it is doubtful if either we or you yill derive much advantage before another "shump" in prices comes. Our past experience is not reassuring.

perience is not reassuring.
"Our members (representing an investment of about $75,000,000 in mines and the appurtenances) are practical men, and thoroughly familiar with the trade in all its details. Many of them are stockholders in one or more of the companies above named, and their interests are thus doubly identical with yours. Although the bulk of your capital is invested in the ceal regions, so that its value and productiveness depend upon conditions existing and economies to be practiced there, yet it is a remarkable fact that some of the largest of the coal companies have not a single director who is resident in the and the appurtenances) are practical a single director who is resident in the territory where your money is expend-ed, or at all familiar with practical mining, or even with the actual condi-tion of your property. That such a state of affairs must operate greatly to the disadvantage of the company follows without saying.
"Committees appointed by our association have heretofore proposed to the railroad managers various plans for harmonizing differences in the trade, but no beneficial action has followed."

The circular concludes with an ap-peal for proxies, with the view to securing representation in the manage-ment of the roads aforementioned. The proxy committee comprises E. B. Sturges, Scranton; H. M. Howe, Phila-delphia, and C. D. Simpson, Scranton.

An Amicable Fight. A representative of the committee said on Saturday that the proposed movement to secure direct representation of the individual operators in the management of the anthracite carrying companies was not one intended to companies was not one intended to be antagonistic to the interests of these companies, but to attempt to secure methods that would economize the out-put of coal. The indiscriminate min-ing of coal regardless of market re-quirements in 1894, had not only left operators without a dollar of profit on their business, but it had injured the stockholders of the railroad companies who have their money invested in their shares, as well as those whose money is directly invested in the coal lands.

directly invested in the coal lands.

He illustrated this, showing that the supply of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania is not inexhaustible, that so far from being so its limits of future supply are well within the bounds of calculation. In a 100 years, he said, coal from the anthracite fields in Pennsylvania will be a curiosity. Two or three decades will make a very perceptible diminution in the supply still in the earth. By wasting it as it has been wasted for sixty years past, at the rate of over 40,000,000 tons per day, the carriers are diminishing their prospects of revenue in the not very distant future. enue in the not very distant future. The limit to the coal supply of Pennsylvania has become a subject of serious consideration.

This is the argument of the committee now asking for proxies. Anthracite coal, they say, is luxury compared with which there is no fuel yet found in the world, and the fact that the limit of the supply can be more or less definitely estimated is a strong reason why it should not be wasted, and in the opinion of the committee, sold for profitless prices. consideration.

At the Mercy of the Companies. The individul operators as compared with the coal carrying companies who are also miners of coal, are at the mercy are also miners of coal, are at the mercy of the transportation companies who fix the rates and selling price. The operator receives from the carrier 60 per cent. of the selling pice of coal at tidewater and city and line shipments. When coal sold at $4.25 per ton at tidewater, the rate from the Lehigh mines for transportation was $1.70 per ton. By flooding the markets with coal, the carriers obtained all the revenue for hauling it. In asking for proxies to secure representation in the management cure representation in the management of these companies, the committee rep-resenting the operators hope to succeed.

Consolidation the Only Cure. Consolidation the Only Cure.

A representative of the carrying interests said that if the operators secured representation in the railroad management, they would then be under an obligation of looking out for the interests of the railroad in the matter of rates, as well as for the operator in the matter of the sale of coal to consumers. The only way it could be done with any success, he said, would be to place the anthracite carriers under one board of mangement, and then secure a representative in that board.

RAILROAD NOTES.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Philadelphia Coal Exchange recently held there was a full attendance of membership, representing thirty-three per cent. of the coal dealers of that city. Chairman Downing, of the committee on weights and penalties, reported that since the August meeting forty-nine tons of coal fradbeen weighed representing forty different dealers. Of this number twenty-six tons belonging to twenty-one dealers were found to be under weight and aubject to prosecution. Thirteen tons were over weight and ten were under, but within the limit of forty pounds. The board of directors was authorized to take action relative to the dealers who were caught selling under weight. Mr. Smith moved that an advertisement be inserted in the morning papers, stating that the Exchange conduct all prosecutions for light weight hereafter. This was agreed to, and accommittee consisters of the consistency of the consisters of the consister ick, Petit and Willard was appointed to prosecute coal hucksters who sell short weight,

The Pittsburg and Lake Eric will shortly build a branch from Pittsburg to Monongaheia, to reach a part of the coal field. The cost of the branch is placed at about $500,000.

The cattle traffic of the Canadian Pacific is stated to show large increases for the year. Sir William Van Horne is reported as saying that it will increase 160 per cent. Products of the British Columbia mines also form a large part of the increased traffic.

The company which bought the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking at receivers' sale has issued stock to the amount of $11,060,000. It is divided into 41,000 shares of 4 per cent. non-cumulative preferred, and 74,995 shares common. Nicholas Monsarratt is president of the new-company, and W. E. Guerin vice president.

A new line, the St. Louis, Siloam and Southern, organized to build a standard-sauge road from St. Louis to Fort Smith, a distance of 300 miles, has been incorporated in Missouri and Arkansas. It is capitalized at $8,000,000.

The payments being made to train-men on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and Delaware and Hudson are the largest in years, if not the largest that have ever been made. Some trains have made as high as fifty-three days, and forty-five days is not uncommon.

"Del" Lease, formerly switchman on the Delaware, Lackawanna and West-ern bridge, now secretary of the Rail-road Young Men's Christian associa-tion at Elmira, is conducting a series of meetings under the auspicles of the Hoboken association.

SHE WAS PRETTY AND PROUD But the Photographer Wes Not Taking

From the Detroit Free Press.
A traveling photographer had arrived at a village at the base of the Cumberland Mountains, and two of his first callers were a mountaineer and his wife who wanted their tin-types taken. The husband thought it well to have a fair understanding of the matter at the beginning, and so he entered the gallery on wheels and asked:

"How much for two pictures?"
"Fifty cents," was the reply,
"Will you take a prime coonskin in payment?

payment?"

"Yes."

"Will we look natural?"

"You will."

"Kin I stand with a knife in my hand, as if ready to tackle a b'ar?"

"You can."

"Kin the old woman hev her hands clasped and her eyes rolled up,like some of them rich folks?"

"If she wants to."

"And yo' take all the risks?"

"What risks do you mean?"

"Waal. I hain't purty nor proud, but the old woman is, and yo'll hev to take a twist out o' her nose, and shorten up her chin a leetle or she'll git right up after seein' the pictur' and light onto yo' like a turkey on a 'tater bug. The last feller that was here only survived two days after takin' her pictur', and I thought it was only squar' to tell yo' bout it."

The artist declined to take the risk, and the man picked up his coonskin and went out, saying:

"Can't blame yo', stranger—can't blame yo' a bit. Yo' don't want to be tore all to pieces and hev this wagin wrecked fur the sake of one coonskin. I'll git the old woman seven yards of kaliker, and she'll hev to roll up her eyes at that and let the pictur' go."

To a Skylark.

Little lark that soarest free,
Pouring forth thy melody
In chant so clear,
The day is near
When summer sun no more shall cheer
Or bring thee giee.

Yet still exult, as far from view Thou mountest; though bright days be few. Far better prize The summer skies them with sightless eyes Ne'er see the blue.

Thy fate is but the common one; On every life the bounteous sun Sometime hath shed Its rosy red, Then sunk, and there have come instead Dark days and dun.

Retained by the weakest stomach, readily assimilated, new flesh and nerve tissue is created, the blood is enriched, the vital organs resume their natural functions and a return to health is the result. In this connection, Dr. M. W. Van Denburg of Fort Edward, N. Y., says, "I have used Bovinine in cases of extreme debility where no other food would be tolerated and with very satisfactory results."
